These are not easy times.

We are already witnessing burning forests, draughts and flooding - environmental disasters with abnormal patterns as first consequences of climate change. All this also comes with a growing climate of intolerance, brutalization of communication and manners, on-going wars, drowning refugees, un-stopped plastic pollution - and on top, a new virus threatening the world.

Resilience is more important than ever as these developments put our industry at risk.

On the other side, there is hope! It needed a new generation to step up and give us the ultimate wake-up call. We have to understand the climate crisis as an opportunity: If we collaborate globally, on all levels, we can make it.

All industries need to play their part; climate protection has to have highest priority.

"Flight shame" is one thing - and it is of course good to start with yourself and reduce your personal carbon footprint but it is surely not enough to fight individually. Each industry branch is responsible, climate change is a problem of modern civilization as a whole. For too long the focus used to be on unlimited growth. Even though tourism by far is not the heaviest polluter, it faces more resentment due to its heavy reliance on aviation than other industries. Tourism is associated with leisure and luxury, and therefore dispensable.. This is only partly true. We all know the huge importance of tourism, giving jobs to millions, empowering women, eradicating poverty, fostering peace, respect and understanding, contributing to inter-cultural dialogue, being a door opener to break down prejudices.

To make that happen we need to keep on travelling - but we also need to rethink the way we do tourism.

..And this is why it's so important that we all come together, here at ITB Berlin:

To exchange ideas, debate, find intelligent new solutions to create better places to live, open the dialogue. There are also many sustainable best practices to share. Make your contribution to the world's largest tourism think tank!

The present program, focusing on sessions and presentation slots dealing with sustainability, culture, social consciousness and responsibility, luckily reflects an increasing engagement.

This makes us happy - getting involved in sustainable thinking seems to become the new mainstream. Here is the future.

Welcome to ITB Berlin's Responsible Tourism Sessions 2020!

What a start to the day!

Route: Brandenburg Gate - Checkpoint Charlie - Tiergarten Park - Berlin Wall - Brandenburg Gate

Old city/Tiergarten park – Starting and finishing at the Brandenburg Gate, our run/jog route will pass some famous landmarks including Brandenburg gate, Checkpoint Charlie, Tiergarten park and the Berlin wall.

And along the way we will partake in some "plogging", meaning we’ll collect some rubbish to help the environment :-) We will break the group into 2. The pace of each group will be 5 minutes 30 seconds per km and 6 minutes 30 seconds per km. After our scenic 5km run around the old city and Tiergarten, you get to refresh and will arrive at the ITB fairgrounds ready for a successful day at ITB Berlin!

The Pow-Wow Welcome Address / Envisioning a socially-responsible, sustainable and regenerative tourism

One of the emerging trends of present society is the awareness on how to protect the planet’s environment and how to further develop in a proper way. The significance of sustainability is increasingly becoming travellers’ main interest, along with experiencing the Great Outdoors. More tourism destinations and enterprises are willing to put greater emphasis in sustainability and social responsibility.

The Pow-Wow brings together exhibitors, sponsors and partners of Hall 4.1b – Adventure Travel ∙ Responsible Tourism from all over the world as well as distinguished tourism industry leaders to share their expertise on major issues, today’s challenges and cutting-edge progress of socially responsible and sustainable tourism. Their presentations feature examples and attempts to answer questions of great concern such as: • What can we learn from destinations striving for a socially-responsible and sustainable tourism? • How can tourism stakeholders foster it and motivate consumers to practice it as well? • How can tourism professionals actively support the campaign for children protection? • How can we, tourism professionals, contribute to the reduction of CO2 emissions of our products, services and destinations?

At the Pow-Wow, we can also learn about the importance of synergies when working on giving aid and supporting local communities as well as protecting nature. However, before taking-off with this 15th edition of the Pow-Wow, let’s travel for a split second back in time, highlighting a few milestones of the development of Hall 4.1b, home of it since 2006, from its very beginning all the way to the present. A panoramic view of its project stages from having the idea, creating an innovative and sustainable project concept as well as organising and implementing it, including the people and vast work involved, will demonstrate how an idea and its creative process became a fascinating entrepreneurial adventure, envisioning always for a sustainable and prosperous future.

- 17th Anniversary of Hall 4.1b - Adventure Travel ∙ Responsible Tourism
- 15th Pow-Wow for Tourism Professionals
- 3rd Cycling Tourism Day
- 12th ITB Berlin Responsible Tourism Networking Event
- 7th Annual Short Film Showcase
- 3rd Hall 4.1b Excellence Recognition Prize for Earth’s Biodiversity Protection and Sustainable Tourism
- 4th Daytime sun-gazing at Entrance South of ITB Berlin with Dr. Andreas Haenel
- 1st Astro-tourism Meet-up
- Launch of the travel project E-Traction - The Trip von Susanne Bruesch, "Lady Pedelec" - E-Bikes Ambassador, and her partner Silvio Zuellig
- myclimate Award Ceremony 2020 for tourism providers who have made special efforts towards climate protection
- ECPAT Germany/DRV Award Ceremony 2020 of the Contest for Tourism Students creators of a travel gadget with a child protection message for a cooperating tourism company

The 15th anniversary of the creation of the Pow-Wow for Tourism Professionals will be celebrated with an unprecedented programme. Following the iconic tradition of having a new main topic each year, “Corals and Reefs, is 2020’s motto for Hall 4.1b and the kick-off theme of the 15th Pow-Wow for...
Tourism Professionals. Let’s start by delving into vast realm of corals and reefs - the living gardens of the deep in peril.

Hidden out of sight 200 m off the North Norfolk Coast, the Cromer Shoals Chalk Bed is a recently designated Marine Conservation Zone in the North Norfolk Coast Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. First brought to public attention in 2010 - 2011 when it was recognised as being almost 20 mile long, 350 different marine species have since been recorded in the area, including a species of purple sponge - new to science - discovered in 2011.

This exceptional natural heritage, dating back 300 million years, is closely linked to onshore cultural heritage. The North Norfolk town of Cromer is famous for ‘Cromer Crab’ and for the chalk that supports the reef that runs as a seam through Norfolk, demonstrated by the area’s chalk streams and the Cromer Chalk Ridge. Whilst efforts are made to promote the chalk bed, and promote the coast as a Deep History Coast, this fragile environment is under threat. Fishing is traditional to seaside towns, but techniques have evolved in scale and impact.

What does the future hold for this exceptional site? How will human activity impact on what is believed to be Europe’s largest chalk reef? Norfolk County Council, working with the Wadden Sea UNESCO World Heritage Site in PROWAD-LINK “Protect and Prosper”, hopes to find a balance between nature and livelihoods.

Exploring the "underwater" world of the Wadden Sea - Sustainability

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 11:00 - 11:30
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Twice daily large areas of the Wadden Sea World Heritage Site become exposed to the air. During these ebb tides visitors have the opportunity to explore the extensive tidal flats (in same areas) on foot with or without a tidal flat tour guide. The tidal flats as well as the tidal channels are an important part of the Wadden Sea ecosystem where flora and fauna has adapted to these challenging conditions. While tour guides offering tidal flat tours explore the sea floor and its inhabitants during ebb tides, those areas permanently under water remain hidden from them. However, boat tours offer visitors the great opportunity to watch seals resting on sand banks, birds or marine animals with a guided catch and release tour. Guided tidal flat and boat tours provide not only a sustainable way to enjoy the World Heritage Site but also an excellent example for the Nature-Business-Benefit-Cycle (NBBC) promoted by the PROWAD LINK Project.

Sustainability in the hospitality industry - short-term euphoria or long term booking success?

- Sustainability in the hospitality industry is becoming more and more important and necessary for society. The topic has also long since arrived in the hotel industry and is creating new challenges due to the changed expectations of hotel guests. Since the focus of the next ITB will be on sustainability, we as experts for sustainability in the hospitality industry want to host a discussion forum. We have organized several successful panel discussions throughout the past years which all attracted positive attention.

The title of this year’s panel discussion is as follows:
Sustainability in the hospitality industry - short-term euphoria or long term booking success?

This year, we as students of Heilbronn University of Applied Sciences and NHL Stenden University of Applied Sciences are organizing the panel discussion, together with Suzann Heinemann from InfraCert - the institute for sustainable development in the hospitality industry.

Panelists:
- Michael Bauer, Geschäftsführer Waldhotel Heppe KG
- Tobias Hanemann, Corporate Director of Operations NOVUM Hospitality

Cetacean captivity and animal welfare

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 11:30 - 12:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

In the wild, most whales and dolphins (cetaceans) live in complex family groups – with generations often staying together their whole lives. For a captive cetacean, life in an aquarium can mean separation from their families, and even being kept alone. Some cetaceans in captivity today started out their lives in the ocean before they were kidnapped, imprisoned and forced to perform repetitive shows for the public’s entertainment. For an individual who is used to swimming many miles every day, a tank is a featureless prison cell.

Whilst we can't know what it feels like to be a cetacean, when you see the behaviour of individuals who have spent years in captivity, you can imagine the frustration, boredom and even despair that they may be feeling. The truth is that most captive cetaceans live shorter lives. Frustration can cause them to attack each other and sometimes trainers and members of the public. In confinement, whales and dolphins may swim endlessly in circles, chew on the sides of the pool and repeat the same patterns of behaviour over and over. Some parks even administer tranquillisers to relieve the stress that they are feeling. In the last few years, public opinion has shifted and in many countries with captive dolphin shows visitor numbers are dwindling.

Whale and Dolphin Conservation (WDC) believes no dolphinarium can create the necessary environmental conditions required for such sentient, social and highly mobile creatures to thrive. These are the reasons why we are calling for a phase out of this cruel industry with no more captive breeding, no imports and no captures from the wild as well as a commitment from the industry to seaside sanctuaries. Whereby, captive cetaceans can live out the rest of their lives in as naturalistic a setting as possible in an ocean environment. Some of these individuals could also be considered for release.

Travel has always been about meeting new people, experiencing new places and understanding new cultures, but what happens if the residents of destinations become skeptical of the benefits of tourism? How do tourism organisations in highly popular destinations remind locals of the positive power of travel? In this workshop, we look at approaches for showing residents that the industry is listening, share concrete examples of how sustainability events can help build bridges between the local and travel communities, and reveal how to make internal operations flexible and resilient enough to survive in dynamic, uncertain and increasingly regulatory environments.

Keynote Panel: Responsible Tourism Destinations: Roadmap To A “High Ambition Scenario”

- In Cooperation with UNWTO-

- According to the UNWTO/ITF report on “Transport-related CO2 emissions of the tourism sector – Modelling Results”, under the current ambition scenario, a total of 1,998 million tonnes of transport-related CO2 will be attributable to tourism by 2030, representing an increase of 25% over 2016.

- The discussion of this high-level panel will build on the commitment of the tourism sector to advance towards a climate high ambition scenario in line with the goals of the Paris Agreement, as expressed during the COP25 official side-event “Transforming Tourism for Climate Action”.

- Policy makers, destinations and industry leaders will explain their leading commitments to transform tourism and aim to support a “high ambition scenario” of climate action in tourism.

Chumbe Island is an internationally acclaimed conservation area, hosting a fully protected coral reef sanctuary and forest reserve. As a not-for-profit enterprise, the revenue generated by ecotourism on the island funds all conservation management and supports Chumbe’s extensive environmental education programmes with local schools and communities in Zanzibar, Tanzania. Operational for more than 20 years, Chumbe is the world’s first financially self-sustaining marine protected area. This presentation explores the positive effects that a privately protected area can have on biodiversity, enforcement, fish populations and coral reefs.

Coral reefs and light pollution

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 13:00 - 13:30
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Many animals in the sea are adapted to the natural rhythms: daily, monthly or seasonal variations. The tides - triggered by the moon - and the phases are main differences to land inhibitors. Increasing light pollution through more settlements and increased activity disturbs these natural variations and has negative impacts on corals and fishes living in the reefs as have shown studies in the Red Sea, for example.

ITB Sustainability Forum 2020 "Generation Digital Greens"

Session in German only!
The ITB Berlin, the Fachhochschule des Mittelstands FHM Berlin and the InfraCert Institute/GreenSign invite you to the 2nd Sustainability Forum at the ITB in Berlin.
The ITB Sustainability Forum is dedicated to linking sustainability concepts in the hotel industry with destination management in the city and countryside. What are the challenges in urban and rural destinations and in different hotel categories/products? The forum is organised and hosted by the Fachhochschule des Mittelstands (FHM) Berlin and the InfraCert Institute/GreenSign.

The aim of the event at the World Tourism fair is to discuss recognizable trends and developments in the digital greens generation with renowned guests from business and science.

The 2nd ITB Sustainability Forum will discuss the question which trends are important for destinations, investors, operators and urban developers and their planning. When taking in account ecology and economy, how does sustainability affect the different sectors? What experiences do the different actors and service providers have? How do digitalisation and sustainability affect development and planning aspects as well as financing?

In 2020 you will find following topics:
• Best practice from the Black Forest holiday region
• Launch of the #nachhaltigbegeistert-Kampagne in Hamburg
• New hotel brands with 100% sustainable orientation
• Experience and best practice examples from the holiday/city hotel industry
• What do the guests expect today and what will the guests of tomorrow expect (New Generation Z study)?
• Digitalisation & sustainability in project development in destination management and in the hotel industry.

25 years Messel Pit UNESCO World Heritage Site - Storytelling as a new tool for United Nations Agenda 2030 Sustainable Goals (SDG)

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 13:30 - 14:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

On December 9th, 1995, the Messel Pit was integrated into the family of UNESCO World Heritage Sites. Since then, a remarkable development took place at this location in giving access into this unique location worldwide by establishing infrastructure and guided tour offers as well as being active in marketing and public outreach. The landscape we have in the northern part of the Odenwald tourism destination has seen many changes during Earth’s history up to the time about 48 million years ago, when by a volcanic eruption a crater came into existence: “Messel Pit” or “The Cradle of today’s life”. It was the birthday of a unique location inside hard granitic rocks, which were formed long time before and about 50 km below the Earth’s crust. A new story started with the birth of the volcanic crater in a rainforest area having a geographic position close to the former tropical zone and for about one million years of time. The crater was filled up with organic material by the biosphere components of this area. A new story starts thinking of what story they could tell us. This is not enough as the scientific discovery of the findings that we see today as fossils tells us again a new story about life and climate from a time so long ago. Today again, we experience rainforest temperatures and may fear, if we can survive.

The Messel Pit treasure safeguarded in the oil shale material, an algae slug in the crater lake, has collected all information under which conditions animals and plants were able to survive. Scientific investigation is a key to find out more about this and it is a special experience to put hands on the findings from 48 million years ago and to see coloured insects, patterns next to bird skeletons, a type of hair along the neck of a primate called “Ida”, to see the blossom of a palm tree or admire the complete skeleton of a dawn horse having a dog size.

Messel Pit is one of these locations where dynamic processes of the formation of this locus spiritus enable us today to feel the Earth’s heartbeat. By walking inside or using the e-WH-shuttle into the area of the “Cradle of today’s Life” Messel Pit, you, the visitor, can feel the spirit, sun and wind blow the stories into your face and brain. You see the form of the volcanic crater and experience the depth of such a structure without risking your life! Our team of professional guides revives the unique stories following across the metastory of: “Fire, water, light and life”. Join the exciting moments of the elements that have created this natural landscape. Feel and breathe our life’s precursors at a place with a unique atmosphere combines yesterday, today and tomorrow. Our tourism products will surprise you.

Visit Wadden - Sustainable growth of a UNESCO World Heritage Site

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 14:00 - 14:30
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Visit Wadden is a unique Dutch project to strengthen the image of the UNESCO Wadden Sea World Heritage Site: coast, sea & islands. The goals are:
- Attract the right added value visitors at the right time,
- Focus on small-scale quality tourism (no mass tourism),
- Involve local organizations, stimulate quality of life in the area,
- Give more attention for and involvement with nature and
- Improve employment and revenue.

The presentation gives an insight on the main principles:

a. Involve stakeholders by working ‘inside out’. How do we develop the region, step-by-step? What do the inhabitants and companies need to work together?

b. Connect the region by stories and develop routes and events with the inhabitants

Stories tell who you are and (re)activate your imagination. The heart of the story is your area’s identity and this provides unity, commitment and recognition, both locally and with the target group

c. Involve stakeholders and visitors step-by-step by the Tourism Marketing Funnel. From awareness, consideration, planning, booking, experiencing to sharing. How is this done?

d. What are the results so far?

On December 2018, the Palau Visitors Authority took the initiative to launch the Alii Pass programme, which is committed to diversify and develop Palau’s activities and attractions. The key objectives of this programme are to direct visitors to other areas in Palau and to create experiences, which embraces Palauan culture, community and the environment around us for visitors and locals to enjoy. In September 2019, Palau Visitors Authority was recognized as a PATA Gold Awardee for Community-based Tourism at the International Travel Mart of the Pacific Asia Travel Association (PATA) in Astana, Kazakhstan. Since creating this program, we have officially launched two cultural tours: Experience Airai (formerly known as Airai State Cultural Tour) and Dusk at Todai.

Experience Airai is a cultural tour in Ordomel, Airai. This body of work is the first product of a larger project named, the Alii Pass program. The tour covers three historical landmarks and structures: The Chief’s traditional meeting house called, Bai; the war Canoe, called Kabekel; and Chades er a Mechorei, a traditional causeway. After the tour, it continues to a traditional lunch at Chades er a Mechorei, prepared and made by the men and women of Airai.

Experience Airai has hosted several high officials such as, President Tommy E. Remengesau Jr., whom has given us words of commendation: “It is important that our visitors get to experience the Palau they came to see. The cultural tour offered at the Bai ra Rengara Irrai is exceptional and it is what experiencing Palau’s culture is all about.” Another tour listed onto the Alii Pass programme is a cultural experience named Dusk at Todai, a monthly dinner show featuring local delicacies, weaving and carving demonstrations, and dance performances from Ngarchelong state.

We are also taking the opportunity to educate, influence, or in essence, make a difference within the community by putting great effort in protecting the environment, for instance, eliminating plastic usage by using biodegradable or reusable material made from natural fibers.

- How to create a competitive advantage for attractive and livable urban destinations
- The disruptive power of mobile applications, technology, big data, augmented reality and new social media bears a lot of chances for destinations and tour operators to create a new visitor experience.
- Becoming a smart urban destination requires a well thought and integrated approach.
- The World Tourism Cities Federation (WTCF) has just recently released the “Global Report on Smart Tourism in Cities” sharing the results of a comprehensive research on smart tourism in urban destinations.
- This panel aims at providing a platform for learning about the outcome and conclusions made in the WTCF research.
- At the same time, it intends to give all stakeholders a stage to share their experiences in implementing smart initiatives and use technology as a tool to create extraordinary experiences and enable visitors to better enjoy their stay in a destination.

HUMAN RIGHTS IN PRACTICE: ASSESSING SOCIAL IMPACTS IN THE TOURISM VALUE CHAIN

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 15:00 - 16:00
Location: Hall 4.1 / ITB Center Stage (Big Stage)

The assessment of company-specific human rights risks and impacts along the value chain is an important step in the human rights due diligence process. How can tour operators strategically assess business-related human rights impacts in destinations? How can defined impacts be addressed and suitable measures initiated? Roundtable Human Rights in Tourism will present its newest tool for Human Rights Impact Assessments and discuss with panel guests the findings of a pilot project on assessing social impacts along the tourism value chain in Myanmar and Thailand.

Valuable know-how for travel and event managers.
More information about the ITB Business Travel segment can also be found here: www.itb-convention.com/businesstravel

Companies want reliable, effective and cost-effective business travel that meets legal and security requirements. Employees expect flexible mobility offerings that are available at all times. Everyone is looking for smart, interconnected mobility that is fit for the future and conserves resources. This is why this year, the ITB Business Travel Forum by VDR is focusing on the mega topics of digitalization, smart mobility and sustainability. Door-to-door solutions for urban mobility will be presented, how the bureaucratic monster of EU reporting obligations came about and how it can be tamed, which possibilities the use of NDC (New Distribution Capability) offers and how even small changes in company travel guidelines can have major effects on the environment.

Centre for the promotion of imports from developing countries (CBI) - Tips that help small and medium-sized enterprise (SME) tour operators successfully meet requirements, find buyers and do business

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 15:30 - 16:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

The European market for tour operators is crowded, sophisticated and dynamic. European travel businesses must comply with strict regulations that ensure their travelling customer is protected financially and will be personally safe when travelling overseas. The small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) in developing countries must be aware of what these are, so they comply with the needs of their European buyers. The European Package Travel Directive and General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) are two key pieces of European legislation that all European tour operators must comply with. In such a competitive market, buyers are always looking for new suppliers with innovative ideas to give them a competitive edge. SMEs should explore ways of reaching these buyers and understand how to do business with them.

It is important that SMEs seeking to find new buyers know which tourism segment they are looking to enter as each has different requirements and needs. Once the buyer is identified, having an understanding of the varying business cultures that differ widely across the region is important for developing effective business relationships with tour operators, online travel agencies (OTAs) and travel agents on the continent.

SME’s that create a distinctive Unique Selling Point (USP) for their own business will help it stand out from the competition. Key business tools for European tour operators are a professionally designed website along with a comprehensive social media programme, an essential part of any marketing strategy in today’s tech-savvy market. Visiting or exhibiting at trade fairs such as ITB Berlin is one of the best ways to connect with this huge market of European buyers.

Tourism 4.0: How digital platforms are changing touristic value chains

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 16:00 - 17:00
Location: Hall 4.1 / ITB Center Stage (Big Stage)

Without owning hotel beds or employing hotel cleaners, platforms dominate the accommodation market. Platforms of all kinds are turning the tourism supply chain upside down. What does this mean for small and medium enterprises in the Global South, such as tour guides, homestays providers and taxi drivers? Who benefits, who does not? We will shed light on the findings of our new study from India: What new opportunities for economic participation arise for small and marginal actors? Which tourism suppliers in India can use platforms to their advantage, which cannot? How does platform architecture shape power relations between tourists, tourism businesses and platforms? The panel will spark discussions on how Online Travel Agents and platforms can integrate issues of sustainability into their business models and contribute to development justice in order to meet customer demand and strengthen small-scale tourism stakeholders in the destinations.

The Sustainable Destinations Awards is the world's leading award series for destination sustainability efforts. A Jury representing 12 international organisations will unveil the winners in the award categories Nature; Communities & Culture; Best of Africa, Best of the Americas, Best of Asia-Pacific and Best of Europe. The flagship award is the ITB Earth Award, recognising global leadership in combatting climate change and environmental degradation.

Prior to the ceremony, ECOTRANS and high-level representatives from UN-CBD, UNESCO, GSTC, WWF, SUNx will present the urgency to boost sustainable tourism as driver for advancing the Sustainable Development Goals until 2030. They will announce their collaboration under the “Travel Green Planet 2030” initiative with the flagship aim to mainstream credibly certified tourism in all destinations with protected areas and cultural heritage sites, using the commonly shared Green Travel Maps on the Tourism2030 platform for knowledge networking and annual reporting. Green Destinations, bookdifferent.com and FairVoyage.com will announce their cooperation to highlight certified travel offer to consumers; and the Good Travel Guide will be presented as tool for Top100 destinations to showcase and book sustainable travel options.

The event is organized and sponsored by ITB Berlin, Green Destinations, the Sustainable Top 100 Partnership, TravelMole, Travelife for Tour Operators and Ecotrans.

MASTER CLASS - UNESCO Global Geoparks Network – Sustainable destinations and Global Geoparks Network activities from the promotion of Geotourism

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 16:30 - 17:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

The Global Geoparks Network (GGN) is a not-for-profit organisation and a dynamic network where members are committed to work together, exchange ideas of best-practice, promote conservation, management and communication to society of the Earth heritage. The GGN was founded in 2004 and since 2015 it is the official partner of UNESCO for the operation of the UNESCO Global Geoparks, the 3rd site designation of the organization, including today 147 areas hosting geological heritage of international significance in 41 countries.

UNESCO Global Geoparks are areas of geological significance in Earth history, including landscapes and geological formations, which are key witnesses to the evolution of our planet and determinants for our future and the promotion of sustainable development, for example, through geotourism and education. The GGN coordinates the Geopark participation and promotion in International Tourism Fairs such as ITB Berlin, to promote Geoparks as sustainable tourism destinations and build new bonds with the international tourism market.

MASTER CLASS - GEO IN: Insular Geoparks – Challenges and perspectives on sustainable tourism development

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 17:00 - 17:30
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Geoparks develop common activities to raise visibility, protect and exploit their unique heritage and use it to build sustainable tourism destinations. Geotourism is the new trend in environmental - alternative tourism. It promotes the value and individualities of the geological heritage of the regions, contributes to the protection and preservation of the natural and cultural environment, increases citizens’ awareness on climate change and sustainability and mobilizes local population to be part of an integrated socio-economic sustainable development.

GEO-IN is a cooperation project financed by E.U. INTERREG Greece - Cyprus that involves four insular Geoparks: three from Greece, namely Psiloritis and Sitia from Crete island, and Lesvos island; and Troodos from Cyprus. Partners are the Development Company of Psiloritis - AKOMM SA, the Municipality of Sitia, the Natural History Museum of the Lesvos Petrified Forest, the Natural History Museum of Crete, the Development Company of Troodos and the Cyprus Forestry Department.

GEO-IN aims to preserve and protect the natural and cultural heritage, to use it for the development of new geotourist products and destinations and to extend the tourist season, through the implementation of common actions, exchange of know-how, and development of common products and services. GEO-IN is expected to have significant benefits:

(a) For the regions, by the increasing of attractiveness and visibility, development of new destinations as well as the prolongation of tourist season
(b) For residents, through the enhancement of entrepreneurship, employment and diversification of the local economy, and
(c) For visitors, by offering them new qualitative products and services

Launch of the travel project E-Traction - The Trip

Date: March 4, 2020
Time: 17:45 - 18:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Susanne Brüsch, also known as “Lady Pedelec”, is a travel enthusiast of electric mobility and has been working as an E-Bike ambassador for over twenty years. For her new project “E-Traction - The Trip”, she joined forces with Silvio Züllig, owner of RoughRoad Global Services in Switzerland, who is an experienced all-rounder and has been riding motorcycles for decades. At ITB Berlin – Hall 4.1b – Adventure Travel • Responsible Tourism, the two-wheel-experienced duo will present their long-term, e-bike travel project “E-Traction - The Trip” to the public for the first time.

The symbiosis of travel-optimized e-mountain bikes and an all-terrain motorhome are the basis for this new adventure on all continents. The 4x4 vehicle serves as the team’s “base camp” – as their home, office, workshop and solar charging station for the electric bikes. With the bikes, the team wants to discover the most beautiful and spectacular e-bike routes worldwide and share them with their fan community.

Living a mobile life while embracing high-tech as well as nature, Susanne and Silvio will travel to remote wilderness and pulsating metropolis. Via the internet, they will report online and live to ITB Berlin – Hall 4.1b about their exciting experiences with country and people, technology and equipment. Tour operators all over the world can benefit from the international media coverage and authentic reporting of this project.

What a great start to the day!

Route: Brandenburg Gate - Reichstag - Victory Moment along the Spree - Brandenburg Gate

Starting and finishing at the Brandenburg Gate, our route will pass some famous landmarks including Brandenburg Gate, Reichstag, Victory monument and along the beautiful river Spree.

And along the way we will partake in some "plogging", meaning we’ll collect some rubbish to help the environment :-) We will break the group into 2. The pace of each group will be 5 minutes 30 seconds per km and 6 minutes 30 seconds per km. After our scenic 5km run around the old city and Tiergarten, you get to refresh and will arrive at the ITB fairgrounds ready for a successful day at ITB Berlin!

#SaveSalina – Community and nature-based tourism development in Montenegro

After 15 years and five international conferences, the Ulcinj Salina has finally been declared a Nature Park and a Ramsar Site - Wetland of International Importance. Initiated by the EuroNatur Foundation, Center for Protection and Research of Birds (CZIP) and Dr. Martin Schneider-Jacoby Association (MSJA), the following months and years will be dedicated to the growing involvement and engagement of the local community towards truly sustainable development. Together with the public and private sectors, with engaged and interested individuals, we aim to help form a basis for enhanced environmental accountability and socio-economic development for Ulcinj and its surroundings. We want to make and measure what matters.

Starting in October 2019, the project “Nature Park Ulcinj Salina: Community- and nature-based tourism development” seeks to develop ecotourism products in, around and with the new protected area, in addition to other measures of nature protection.

- One of the most important components is the local community awareness and activity, as well as promotion support to gain new social and economic benefits. Therefore, the people of Ulcinj are invited to engage in measures to protect the area with its unique historical and cultural values, nature and wildlife, and to take part in the joint creation of attractive, market-resonant tourism experiences and offers.

- Such offers are always addressed to the citizens of Ulcinj and domestic visitors as well as new facets for the local quality of life, year-round. The speakers will share experience and lessons learnt from a place in transformation and its people.

PATA Annual Seminar & Hosted Lunch

Theme:
Destination Resilience and Recovery – facing Global Challenges

Maybe more than any other sector of business, travel and tourism operates in an incredibly complicated, interconnected and globalised world. As well as its own internal challenges, travel is constantly having to face new, unpredictable regional and global external shocks that have the capacity to impact on people’s propensity to visit foreign countries.

As well as individual crises that come and go, travel is also facing a number of long-term trends, many of which stem directly from its own growth and success, like the issues of so-called over-tourism and the impact on the environment and climate change. However, there are no signs that the human desire to travel and enjoy authentic, life-affirming experiences is about to wane. Indeed, as millions of people enter the middle classes in developing countries travel’s prospects look very good.

But destinations and travel companies must be ready for the inevitable challenges that will come and that is what this PATA seminar is all about. Delegates will hear about the key trends in the Asia Pacific market, the impact of the current coronavirus outbreak in China and how destinations need to react to a changing market and consumer demands.

10:30 – 10:45 Introduction and Overview of PATA – 2020 Developments and Priorities
- Dr Mario Hardy, CEO, PATA

10:45 – 11:00 Asia Pacific Visitor Forecasts

More information about the ITB Business Travel segment can also be found here: www.itb-convention.com/businesstravel

Companies want reliable, effective and cost-effective business travel that meets legal and security requirements. Employees expect flexible mobility offerings that are available at all times. Everyone is looking for smart, interconnected mobility that is fit for the future and conserves resources. This is why this year, the ITB Business Travel Forum by VDR is focusing on the mega topics of digitalization, smart mobility and sustainability. Door-to-door solutions for urban mobility will be presented, how the bureaucratic monster of EU reporting obligations came about and how it can be tamed, which possibilities the use of NDC (New Distribution Capability) offers and how even small changes in company travel guidelines can have major effects on the environment.

golden deserts and tranquil beaches. All comes together in Iran to present a perfect example of what we call "Four Seasoned" country. But there is much more than historical and natural attractions to Iran!

Iran is home to people from different cultural and historical backgrounds. From north to south and east to west, people of Iran speak different languages, feature different traditions and display an interesting diversity in lifestyle. Of course, the local cuisine, way of dressing and managing daily life in a cold town on top of a mountain cannot be similar to one in a warm island next to the sea. But all of these people with their respectfully different cultures have one trait in common: They all display a special and unique quality of hospitality! Persian Hospitality is definitely an artful way of hosting guests and making them comfortable during their stay. Iranians are always willing to host others (especially travellers) with tea and tasty meal, and try to make them feel at home while being their guests. An Iranian will never let you leave their home hungry or bored!

In this presentation, we aim to introduce the traditions of Iranians with a focus on Persian Hospitality. The presentation opens with a short video clip of Land of Turquoise Domes Company and continues with a discussion about the rich culture of Iranians and the way hosting guests have become part of Iranian culture throughout history. Towards the end of the presentation, Persian sweets and snacks will be served to the audience as examples of Persian culinary culture, which will be followed by conversations about Iran’s limitless potentialities as an ideal tourism destination.

Live like a Massai - Experiences with impact on foot of Kilimanjaro

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 12:00 - 12:30
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Have you ever seen the sunrise behind Kilimanjaro? Join us in an experience that you will never forget by living in our Original Maasai Lodge. The lodge is led by the Maasai and features free activities such as spear throwing, traditional dances, nature walks and campfire stories that allow you to interact with the tribe. To enable exclusivity and authenticity, there are only 16 earth houses, which stand in different places in a replicated Maasai village. Each bungalow is powered by solar energy and offers European standard. International and traditional Swahili dishes are refined with home-grown herbs and served in the restaurant. To relax, there is a rest area, a massage room as well as a pool and a sauna.

"Experiences with Impact" stands for the experiences that guests have with us and through whose income the local population can be offered improved and lasting support. By staying with us you do not only get the chance to interact with the maasai and the local community, but also do something good. All income that we generate through overnight stays, activities and excursions is directly invested in the social projects on site, such as schools, KinderVilla and the hospital. With a team of over 200 employees, around 100 patients are treated daily and around 1,000 children are cared for. Each of the projects is led by locals with the aim of sustaining themselves in the long-term. The projects can be visited free of charge with an English-speaking guide. Spending your holiday with us does not only give you a unique insight into the country and its culture, it also allows you to have diverse experiences with impact.

• Dr. Cornelia Wallner-Frisee, Owner, Africa Amini Life - Original Maasai Lodge; Tanzania
• Lesse Laizer, Lodge Manager, Africa Amini Life - Original Maasai Lodge; Tanzania

Accessible Thailand 2020 - Tourism for all

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 12:30 - 13:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Our presentation will begin with a short introduction to Nutty’s Adventures, our work in the area of community-based tourism and commitment to responsible and sustainable tourism. The main subject, though, will be accessible tourism in Thailand and our commitment to its development. It will cover how we got started, the organizations with whom we first worked and our first customers, a group of blind and partially sighted clients from the United Kingdom. We will then move on to the research and development that we have carried out since then, in partnership with other organizations that share our aims, in order to create a solid foundation of knowledge and expertise on which accessible tourism in Thailand can be successfully built. This includes training, the development of information technology (IT) platforms and also adding wheelchair users to the range of clients that we can welcome to Thailand. We will conclude with a summary of where we are now and what our plans are for the future. These include researching new destinations and suitable accommodations, so we can increase the range of programmes on offer and so appeal to a wider segment of the market and on-going training programmes to increase the number of qualified guides to meet growing demand.

• Nithi Subhongsang, Managing Director, Nutty’s Adventures; Thailand
• Julian Kappes, General Manager, Nutty’s Adventures; Thailand

World Heritage, Tourism and Local Communities

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 14:00 - 15:00
Location: CityCube / Level 3 / M8

Tourist numbers usually skyrocket after sites are inscribed on UNESCO’s prestigious World Heritage List but most of them are not well prepared for the strain which great numbers of visitors bring. National Tourism Agencies keep promoting them as flagship sites in their destination marketing, but tourism businesses are increasingly concerned that sites lose authenticity and appeal from overtourism while local populations feel that they lose control over their lives without having a benefit.

This panel discussion will explore what UNESCO, governments, the tourism industry and local communities can do in order to bring the special requirements for protection, the expectations of the industry and the needs of local populations at World Heritage Sites together for the benefit of all.

Tajikistan - 5 000 years of adventure

Date
March 5, 2020

Time:
14:30 - 15:00

Location
Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

The Republic of Tajikistan is nature’s adventure playground. Ancient Silk Road travellers, including Marco Polo, crossed the mountain passes and river valleys on their journeys across Central Asia. Rulers built mighty fortresses to keep their lucrative trading routes open, Buddhists and Zoroastrians erected temples and monasteries, and unknown artists left their mark on cliffs and rocks in the form of petroglyphs.

Tajikistan’s dramatic mountainous landscapes still beckon international travellers with a taste for adventure. The high altitude Tajik National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, includes unclimbed peaks and pristine lakes, opportunities to stay with nomads in their yurts, and rare snow leopards and Marco Polo sheep. You can traverse the Murghab Plateau by driving or cycling the Pamir Highway; it’s renowned as one of the world’s greatest road trips.

Sophie Ibbotson and Andrea Dall’Olio will speak about how the World Bank’s $30m rural and economic development programme in Tajikistan will enable the country to capitalise on its natural, historical, and cultural resources and realise its tourism potential. Their talk will focus on the regions of Khatlon and GBAO (the Pamir), incorporating aspects of both adventure/active and cultural/historical tourism.

St. Anthony’s Channel in Šibenik, Croatia - The place where the river Krka flows over the sea

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 15:00 - 15:30
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

This is an exceptional place where Krka river finds its way to the sea through the St. Anthony’s Channel. Once it was a canyon; nowadays, it is a channel rich in flora and fauna that belongs to the ecological network Natura 2000 Krka Estuary. As a natural and cultural protected area, the St. Anthony’s Channel is also a part of the significant landscape Channel - Port in Šibenik as well as a buffer zone of St. Nicholas’ Fortress, the one at the exit of the channel, protected by UNESCO in 2017. All the way through the St. Anthony’s Channel stretches a beautiful walking trail with side amenities: training ground, rest areas and children’s playground. It is suitable for running, cycling, outdoor gym, kayaking and sailing.

The Minerska bay is extremely popular amongst cyclists and recreationists and it is the place of the future Visitor Center, a presentation and educational center. Together with the St. Nicholas’ Fortress and a walking trail, it is the most attractive visitors’ destination in Šibenik-Knin County. Special features, in addition to the attractive location in the future center of the protected area, are the future IT solutions and a series of multimedia interactive displays of flora and fauna, especially the underwater world and virtual reality devices, which allow an immediate experience of the natural values in one place.

PANEL DISCUSSION - Community-based and sustainable tourism in Myanmar

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 15:30 - 16:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Myanmar is one of the most inspiring places in Asia. Because of the country's natural and cultural heritage, tourism has become an important economic sector. After the transformation into a democratic system, Myanmar has opened up to visitors. In the first years after the change, more and more international travellers came in. Some places have been exposed to many visitors such as the Shwedagon Pagoda in Yangon or the archaeological area of Bagan with its temples and pagodas. However, there are many other regions in Myanmar where there is no way to participate in economic development. The panel discusses how community-based tourism initiatives support rural people and how responsible tourism can contribute to sustainable development in Myanmar.

Signing Ceremony for a Memorandum of Understanding
After the presentation, a Memorandum of Understanding to support sustainable tourism development in Myanmar will be signed.

The Music and Tourism Industries Join Forces: How Destinations Can Work with Artists to Increase Attractivity

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 15:30 - 16:30
Location: Hall 4.1 / ITB Center Stage (Big Stage)

In tourism, showcasing what a place can offer is just as important as providing unique attractions and activities. Music can help destinations achieve both goals, as artists can not only make cities more vibrant and create new entertainment opportunities for tourists, but also actively communicate the essence of a place and boost profile and visitor numbers. Our panel will discuss how tourism boards, artists and media companies can better collaborate to reach new audiences, attract more tourists and present a wider music offer.

Moderator: Alice Feltro, Events Coordinator, Music Cities Events (Italy)

Panelists:
- Manuel Hubault, Senior Vice President, Brand Partnerships, Global, Universal Music Group (UK)
- Donovan White, Director of Tourism, Jamaica Tourist Board (Jamaica)

Managing Overtourism with Next-Generation Guides

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 16:00 - 16:45
Location: ITB VR Lab / Hall 10.2 / Booth 108

Overtourism suffocates historical centers of popular European cities.
The situation is getting worse every year as more people travel and most of them Google out the same top 10 places to visit. Mayors and DMOs are desperate and even consider restricting access.
Fortunately, technology can help. Personalization based on big data analysis and AI recommends different top places to visit for every tourist based on their interests. Engaging content enriched by AR experiences makes places outside of the city center appealing for tourists to explore. Guiding tourists smartly can reduce overtourism by 30% while improving satisfaction.

Panel 1: Many Actors, One Goal – Strong Partnerships In Tourism

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 16:00 - 16:45
Location: CityCube Berlin, Hall A1

Tourism and development face daunting global challenges that more than ever requires stakeholders from public, private civil society and academic domains to work on solutions together.
From human rights to biodiversity over changes in technology and digitalization – strong partnerships can lead to success.
Managing such a diversity of thinking and acting requires diplomatic skill and administrative craft.
Representatives from European and German multi-stakeholder initiatives and tourism partnerships will discuss how bringing many often-disparate actors together, can achieve common goals through strong partnerships in tourism.

Time: 16:00 - 16:45
Location: CityCube Berlin, Cube Club

Time to act is now: How governments and tourism industry can stop plastic leakage into the sea

- In Cooperation with WWF-
  - Every minute a truckload of plastic waste makes its way into the world’s oceans and causes a lot of damage to the environment.
  - But the flood of plastic also comes with the tourists.
  - In the summer months, the increasing volumes of plastic push waste management to its limits in our favorite holiday destinations.
  - The tourism industry is under pressure to act. Holidaymakers don’t want to lie on littered beaches and swim between plastic bags. Sensitive guests urge their hotels and tour operators to change quickly. What answers do they get?
  - But the industry cannot operate independently of its conditions in the country and holiday region.
  - A motivated hotel and tour operator quickly reaches its limits when political will and laws are insufficient. If the overall conditions are not favorable, campaigns and initiatives will fail.
  - Unlike many other holiday regions, the Government of the Balearic Islands are now taking radical action to combat the plastic waste pollution. The hotel sector will be fundamentally affected. Does Mallorca become the model for other tourism destination worldwide?

Aviation and climate protection – today and tomorrow?

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 16:30 - 17:15
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

If there is one industry blamed for contributing to climate change the most, then it is probably the airline industry. In spite of its current indisputably large CO2 footprint, airlines like Lufthansa invest and innovate in a more sustainable business for the future. How can we further benefit from all positive achievements related to global travel and connectivity, and take on our responsibility for global climate? What is the future of sustainable air travel if there is any? Bio-kerosene, electrical aviation and Offsetting? Moderator Fritz Lietsch will challenge Jan-Ole Jacobs (Lufthansa) and Kai Landwehr (myclimate) on this topic.

After the discussion and the award ceremony, myclimate invites all participants and guests to a “climate get together” with sustainable drinks at the myclimate stand 245 (hall 4.1).

Panel 2: Entrepreneurship In Tourism – A Chance Towards Female Empowerment

Date: March 5, 2020
Time: 17:00 - 17:45
Location: CityCube Berlin, Hall A1

- The empowerment of women is one of the most effective methods to foster positive change in emerging and developing economies.
- Female entrepreneurs tend to be discouraged by social and cultural constructs, lacking access to start-up financing, knowledge about business management and political conditions.

- Unfortunately, the tourism industry is no exemption.
- Yet, although women account for the biggest share of workers in the tourism industry, there is a clear lack of women in leadership positions in this sector.
- With the female panelists we discuss how tourism can be an industry of change for women entrepreneurs in our partner countries.
- Experience has shown, the more dynamic a sector is, the more opportunities for an inclusive participation arise, especially in times of rapid transformation in technology and digitalization.
- Moreover, we debate questions about gender equality in business, participation and access opportunities to tourism markets and leadership from the perspective of female champions and experts in tourism.

ITB Morning Run - Charlottenburg Palace 10km

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 07:00 - 08:00
Location: Meeting Point: Tiergarten (S-Bahn Station)

What a start to the day!

Route: SBahn train station Tiergarten - Along the river Spree - Charlottenburg Palace - SBahn train station Tiergarten

Starting and finishing at Tiergarten S Bahn train station, our route will take us out along the canal to the royal Charlottenburg palace and around its beautiful grounds. Famous landmarks in the grounds include the palace itself, queen Sophie Charlotte’s mausoleum and the Schloss garden.

And along the way we will partake in some “plogging”, meaning we’ll collect some rubbish to help the environment ;-) We will break the group into 2. The pace of each group will be 5 minutes 30 seconds per km and 6 minutes 30 seconds per km. After our scenic 5km run around the old city and Tiergarten, you get to refresh and will arrive at the ITB fairgrounds ready for a successful day at ITB Berlin!

Planet Earth - Its past is forming our present and creating our future

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 10:00 - 10:20
Location: Hall 4.1 / ITB Center Stage (Big Stage)

Please note that this session will take place on the ITB Central Stage (hall 4.1b).

Geoparks are communicating the exciting and extremely long history of Mother Earth, celebrating the links between geological and biological heritage and our human culture and history. Main goals are to protect and conserve our heritage through scientific work and enhanced understanding, educate local inhabitants and visitors and open possibilities for a more environmental friendly and knowledge based tourism, especially in rural areas.

In 2000 at ITB Berlin, European Geoparks Network was created by four geoparks, in Greece, Spain, France and Germany. In 2019, 147 UNESCO Global Geoparks from different parts of the world are participating in the strong Global Geoparks Network, forming this third UNESCO Site designation. Compared to the other UNESCO Site designations, Geoparks are not protected areas but about living communities. The defining geological heritage needs to be protected, but the protection can be of different levels. Local development and knowledge dissemination are main activities for geoparks – guided tours where the vivid history of Mother Earth is revealed as a common tourist activity geoparks offer. This presentation will explain “geoparks” and what we do by showing examples of best practice tourism in geoparks and the different roles geoparks can play in a society.

As part of UNESCO geopark, activities are also strongly linked to the United Nations Sustainable development goals. UN and geoparks: E for the education, lifelong learning, for boys and girls, women and men, young and old, disabled or not + S for the science, not only geoscience, it is about the connections + C for the culture, our need for geological resources, our building materials, in the past, present and future. And O for the organization. UNESCO and Global Geoparks Network!

Dr. Kristin Rangnes, Treasurer, Global Geoparks Network; Managing Director, Gea Norvegica Geopark; Norway

Sustainable tourism destination - Examples from Asian Pacific Geoparks Network
UNESCO Global Geopark is a prestigious designation. There are altogether 147 UNESCO Global Geoparks around the world, scattered across different countries and regions. 57 of them belong to the Asia Pacific Geoparks Network (APGN).

The 57 APGN Geoparks contain vastly diverse landscapes, from volcanic islands to tall mountains, from arid desert to exotic beaches, and from tranquil lakes to active volcanos. Tourists visiting these Geoparks are greeted by beautiful outcrops and topographical features, coastal landforms, inlets, waterfalls, gorges, caves, caverns and lava tubes, to name a few. They may also catch glimpses of Earth’s history in fossils, dinosaur footprints and trackways as well as a variety of other fascinating earth formation features.

The gorgeous, enticing landscape and scenery is not the only thing Geoparks offer, as UNESCO Global Geoparks are not only about geology and landscape, but also about connecting the geological heritage with the area’s natural and cultural heritages. No matter how big or small a Geopark is, each one is a one-of-a-kind fusion of its environment and culture, which brings about their own traditional art, music and festivities. And together with exclusive local food and products, there is sure to be something for everyone to enjoy.

APGN Geoparks are a healthy mixture of Earth history, nature and landscape combined with cultural and regional traditions. With sustainability being a main management goal, APGN Geoparks are excellent green tourism destinations not only for tourists interested in geoheritage of international significance, but also for all others who can appreciate the related cultural heritage and natural beauty.

World Heritage Explorer - Walking and hiking in the Wadden Sea region

Explore the Wadden Sea World Heritage region on a natural and cultural hike! The Wadden Sea World Heritage is a unique nature area and the coastal region is rich in culture and tradition. The new online and app-based hiking platform “World Heritage Explorer” offers a range of route suggestions on the mainland and islands, from a short walk to a full-day tour. The tours take visitors of all ages through scenic areas along or near the coast. Numerous waypoints feature interesting facts about the nature and culture of the respective region.

The presentation gives an introduction to the new offer and highlights some of the most interesting routes. As part of the German-Danish Interreg project “NAKUWA - Nature and Cultural Tourism on the Wadden Sea” routes are first developed in the North Frisian and Danish Wadden Sea region. Later, the offer will be extended to the entire World Heritage region.

The 9th Accessible Tourism Day will take place on Friday, 6 March 2020 at the ITB travel fair in Berlin. How can touristic offers respond to the needs of holidaymakers with disabilities? Which attractive possibilities do already exist for the different target groups of barrier-free tourism? And what are the chances and challenges for tourism service providers and DMOs related to this topic?

The programme included presentations and a panel discussion, at which experts looked closely at these issues in practical terms and from a range of perspectives.

The event is being funded by the Federal Ministry for Economic Affairs and Energy. It was organised with the support of the Tourism for All working group of the German federal states, the working group “Accessible Travel – Barrier-free Destinations in Germany” and the Messe Berlin exhibition centre.

The marine wildlife wonders of the Dominican Republic

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 11:00 - 11:45
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

The underwater world of the Dominican Republic, some of it protected as national parks, is fascinating, revealing features such as coral reefs, caves, remains of galleons, shipwrecks, and a world of multi-coloured marine life. In the beginning of each year, thousands of humpback whales migrate to the waters of the Samaná Bay on the Dominican Republic’s North coast to mate and give birth. The Tourist Board of the Dominican Republic in Germany will provide an overview on eco-tourism in the Dominican Republic.

The 2020 Whale Whisperer, Tim Philippus, will share updates on the initiatives in the ecotourism sector in Samaná. The Whale Whisperer is a project of the Dominican Republic Tourist Board with the support of the Center for the Eco-Development of Samaná Bay and its Surroundings (CEBSE) and Whale Samaná. Both organizations are pleading for the protection of whales, original landscapes and sustainable tourism development in the Dominican Republic.

Marion Hammerl has worked on several conservation projects in the Dominican Republic. One of the initiatives, supported by the European Commission and coordinated by the German Cooperation Agency (GIZ), focused on the “contribution of the tourism sector to the restoration and protection of the coastal and marine biodiversity of the Caribbean”, like the coral reefs and mangroves, which belongs to the most threatened ecosystems worldwide. Marion will give some insights on the fragile coastal eco system and corals and what is done to protect it.

Cocktail Dominican Marine Wonders

After the presentation, the Dominican Republic Tourist Board is pleased to invite the attendees to learn more about the country at the stand Nr. 214 - Latin America World, while enjoying traditional drinks and “picaderas”.

Making a difference - Cycling tourism in numbers

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 11:00 - 12:00
Location: Hall 4.1 / ITB Center Stage (Big Stage)

Please note that this session will take place on the ITB Central Stage (hall 4.1b).

Tourism is one of the world’s largest economic sectors, supporting one in 10 jobs (319 million) and generating 10.4% of GDP globally. The tourism industry nevertheless faces some significant challenges, including unsustainable transportation patterns, overtourism in major destinations and seasonality; for which cycling tourism can provide solutions. This growing segment of the market already contributes over €40 billion to the European economy alone and most destinations now provide offers and products to encourage visitors to discover their attractions more sustainably by bike.

This session brings together some of the latest data from across Europe to demonstrate the growing impact that cycling tourism is having: whether it be GIS data, quality assessments of routes, usage monitoring or trends such as multi-day cycling tours or excursions. Such data can be used to communicate the current status of cycling tourism products; to assess the impact of new developments; and also to lobby for further investment. The session will combine short presentations of the data followed by a panel discussion. It will end with the latest announcements from the EuroVelo network.

How travel industry leadership and support is vital to phase out captivity of cetaceans for entertainment purposes and increase responsibility of wild whale and dolphin watching operations.

The captive dolphin entertainment industry and whale and dolphin watching are both multi-billion-dollar industries. But what does a responsible future for whales and dolphins in tourism look like? This event will present the issues of exploiting captive whales and dolphins for entertainment purposes and the essential role the travel industry can play in supporting change. Ocean sanctuaries for whales and dolphins currently in captivity are one part of the solution, but only an end to captive breeding, imports and wild-capture with an increased availability of responsible alternatives will ensure this is the last generation of whales and dolphins in captivity.

Highlights will include key findings from World Animal Protection’s recent Behind the Smile report; World Cetacean Alliance presenting the opportunities for responsible whale and dolphin watching including turning whole destinations into Whale Heritage Sites and beacons of best practice; and Whale and Dolphin Conservation introducing the world’s first open water sanctuary for beluga whales and their goal to provide alternative, more natural homes for captive whales and dolphins. A leading travel brand will also present their perspective on corporate leadership and travel industry support for a dolphin-friendly future. Presentations will be followed by a moderated panel discussion on how a vision for a responsible future can be achieved.

Pushing the Boundaries: Reimagining and repackaging destinations across Southern Africa

Cross-border tourism, investment opportunities, regional integration and rural economic inclusion: How can tourism be leveraged to address these imperatives within the context of Southern Africa’s Transfrontier Conservation Areas?

Southern Africa’s Transfrontier Conservation Areas (TFCAs) were founded because natural resources straddling boundaries between its Member States are shared assets with potential to contribute towards biodiversity conservation, the preservation of wildlife, and the socio-economic development of rural communities living in and around them.

The tourism sector in Southern Africa is the largest market-based contributor to the financing of protected areas, including national parks. TFCAs are home to some of Southern Africa’s most impressive natural and cultural tourism attractions including Kruger and Chobe National Parks, the Fish River Canyon, the Okavango Delta and the Victoria Falls. This creates a strong basis for the development of authentic tourism products and experiences that are unique to the region.

Through a public-private dialogue of Southern African tourism practitioners our panel event will unpack the potential, challenges and opportunities to leverage sustainable cross border tourism market development to achieve national and regional imperatives like biodiversity conservation, rural economic inclusion, regional integration and effective investment promotion.

After giving an updated general overview over astro-tourism, we will discuss a connection to the ongoing developments of archaeological remains from the Neolithic and bronze age such as Carnac, Stonehenge etc. One of these projects is the European Culture Megalith Route. Our ancient ancestors often observed stars - undisturbed by artificial lighting. Protecting these sites from obtrusive lighting could help visitors to experience such sites like many centuries or thousands of years in the past.

A global survey on light pollution in 2018 showed that most people have joined activism against light pollution after experiencing truly dark skies. Being exposed to the natural amount stars with an embedding cultural programme is a unique travel experience. In this talk, we will share information about selected dark sky events in Europe. Topics include the WATT Westhavelländer Astro-Treff in Germany, Chasseurs des Nuits in France and Mayo Dark Sky Festival in Ireland. A list of selected dark sky events will be available.

Did you ever witness a dark night with thousands of stars twinkling in the sky and with the Milky Way stretching from horizon to horizon? If you ever did so, it has probably been a unique experience, which you will never forget. And it has probably been an experience you made during a holiday trip. The darkest skies can be found in distant mountain areas and on remote islands far away from our light polluted cities. Today, more and more people are looking for holiday destinations where they can experience phenomena such as the Northern Lights, the Milky Way and a sky covered with thousands of stars.

Combining cycling tourism with cultural and natural heritage sites

Date
March 6, 2020
Time:
13:00 - 13:30
Location
Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Cultural and natural heritage sites are often very attractive points of interest for tourists but they can be sensitive to pollution and high levels of demand. Cultural sites were mostly built before the age of mass travel and are located in areas not suitable for large numbers of visitors, especially when the private car is the dominant mode of arrival. Equally, the environment in natural sites can be damaged by car-based tourism. Cycling provides a remedy for these problems. Moreover, from a cycle tourist’s perspective, combining a route with cultural and natural heritage sites will greatly increase the route’s attractiveness. This session will provide examples from different projects and routes on how this combination can work.

Alpine crossing “Cycling route Munich-Venezia” - An example of successful trinational cooperation

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 13:30 - 14:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

The Munich-Venezia cycle route is the fourth major Alpine crossing track for cyclists. It was launched within two European projects within the frame of INTERREG in 2015. After finishing the INTERREG programme, the partners on the route decided to engage a professional management for the route. The Route Management coordinates marketing activities, quality management and product development. It is financed by thirteen partners along the whole route such as public tourism organisations and private networks. All activities are organised in mutual agreement, which represents some challenges in communication and interaction as well as in intercultural knowledge and sensitivity. The presentation will focus on the experiences and lessons learned within this trinational cooperation.

Business Case Sustainability: Fact Or Fiction?

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 14:00 - 14:45
Location: CityCube Berlin, Hall A1

- Is the business case of sustainability all about efficiency, and thus cost-savings?
- Where is the added value of sustainability in travel, tourism and hospitality and are consumers going for it?
- What are the best ways to move forward?
- To invest in initially more-expensive buildings and sustainable operations that eventually lead to dramatically-low costs and a higher yield?
- To reap the low-hanging fruits, creating substantial savings to fund advanced technologies down the road?
- Or to spread sustainability efforts across the value network, creating a new business model that is attractive to travelers?

Iranian Coast to Coast by bicycle - Cycling from the Persian Gulf to the Caspian Sea

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 14:30 - 15:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

Where in one country can you cycle from unspoilt beaches with palm trees, wooden ocean-going vessels to 27 m below sea level; cycling across deserts, forests, mountain passes over 3,000 m, passing snow-capped mountains (5,610 m Damavand), through eight of Iran’s provinces, crossing National Parks, visiting UNESCO World Heritage Sites like Shiraz, Persepolis, Esfahan…?

A 2,850 km route from south to north, cycling 650 km that will allow you to visit an incredible amount of different places and people; from the Arab tribes on the coast, the Qashqai and Bakhtiari tribes in the Zagros mountains in western Iran to the Mazanis tribes in the Alborz mountains in the north. You will cycle on mountain bikes through towns, remote villages along a variety of good quite tarmac roads, dirt roads and tracks. You will stay in traditional hotels, Caravanserai (small forts along the Silk Road that were a sort of “hotel” and camel stable for travellers), homestays and small hotels.

In a combination of cycling, car and night-train transfers, you can cycle along the deep blue Persian Gulf coast, cross the northern part of the “Dasht – e Kavir” desert, cross Iran’s two main mountain ranges; the Zagros mountains in the south west and the Alborz mountains along the north, including Asia’s highest extinct volcano Mt. Damavand (5,610 m), pass ancient 2,000 year old mountain top castles, deep little known canyons among others. Iran’s most important cultural centres are included; Shiraz, Persepolis, Pasargadae, Esfahan, Kashan and Tehran.

An Insight from Experts: Value Chains in Tourism as a Tool towards a Sustainable Development

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 14:30 - 15:30
Location: Hall 4.1 / ITB Center Stage (Big Stage)

As one of the largest economic sectors worldwide, tourism has an enormous potential to contribute to a sustainable development and improve the living conditions of people in developing and emerging countries. Since tourism is closely connected to other economic sectors, it can provide strong development impulses even beyond the industry itself. But this also explains the complexity of the tourism value chain.

For the third time, we are taking a closer look into the work of German Development Cooperation in the field of tourism. After presenting a new handbook on value chains in tourism by Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH, this event will dive into the practical experiences of development experts working with the tourism value chain to promote a sustainable development.

Adventure travel with E-Bikes around the world – Project E-Traction “The Trip”

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 15:30 - 16:00
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

E-bike travel is getting more and more popular – and for good reasons. This brings a huge potential to the tourism industry, and challenges too. E-bike expert and journalist Susanne Brüsch, also known as “Lady Pedelec”, will provide insight into the latest market trends of the e-bikes and first experiences of e-bike tour operators. Based on the experiences gained as an E-Bike Ambassador and pedelec traveller in Europe, Asia, Africa and U.S.A., of crossing deserts, mountains, grasslands and snow, Susanne will answer key questions on e-bike transport, energy management and battery charging while on the road. She will also show why a pedelec is the perfect touring vehicle for anyone, especially when travelling in groups. Thereafter, she will briefly present her long-term travel project “E-Traction – The Trip” and introduce her travel and project partner Silvio Züllig, an experienced all-rounder and motorcycle rider. The two-wheel-proven team will share insights of the planning of their joint venture project and challenges they have been facing during the process.

Sustainable mobility in tourism – Showcasing the North Sea Region Wadden Sea

Date: March 6, 2020
Time: 16:00 - 16:30
Location: Hall 4.1 B / Adventure Stage

The aim of the project is to support interested cities, municipalities and regions of the North Sea Region in a targeted implementation of sustainable mobility concepts and to effect behavioural changes on the part of tourism demand for a more intensive use of environmentally friendly public transport.
In the Wadden Sea region are numerous tourist hotspots such as the West Frisian Islands (Ameland, Schiermonnikoog, Terschelling and Vlieland), the coastal region on the Wadden Sea and the IJsselmeer in the province of Friesland, the Wadden Sea coast in the province of Groningen (all in the Netherlands), the East Frisian Islands (Borkum, Juist, Norderney, Baltrum, Langeoog, Spiekeroog and Wangerooge) and the coastal towns on the Wadden Sea and the touristsically important cities such as Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven in Lower Saxony and Bremerhaven in the state of Bremen.

For the Wadden Sea region, this study showed ways in which the transition from arrival by car to more sustainable means of transport can be arranged. In order to ensure the accessibility of attractions and places in tourist destination areas, the focus is not only on the “classic” public transport, e.g., bus and train. In order to be able to offer attractive mobility solutions away from one’s own car in the future, holistic, economically viable and target group-oriented mobility concepts are increasingly required in the municipalities.

- As the climate emergency unfolds and the 2030 deadline for the Sustainable Development Goals passes, Euromonitor International asks what will the future of travel be in 2040?
- Join us to fast forward to the future to consider the potential impact of drivers like geopolitics, demographics, technology, sustainability and consumer values on destinations and travel brands.
- Assessing the impact of megatrends also helps to take a long term view of potential disruptors to the status quo.
- What will consumers of 2040 look for in travel experiences? How will the path to purchase change and where should suppliers focus their efforts? How will lodging, transport, distribution and payments change in terms of customer experience and service delivery?
- Euromonitor International will pose these bold questions to help steer a path through the unknown by focusing on what is more certain.

Speaker: Caroline Bremner, Head of Travel Research, Euromonitor

Promoting cultural heritage - digitalisation instead of travel?

The ITB Berlin and the Fachhochschule des Mittelstands, University of Applied Sciences, FHM Schwerin and FHM Berlin are inviting to the forum "Marketing Cultural Heritage - Digitization instead of Travelling? The focus of the event is on linking sustainability concepts in relation to the marketing of cultural heritage. The aim is to discuss trends and developments in the field of marketing cultural heritage with representatives from science and industries. Are digital developments representing an alternative to travelling?

See the following topics:
- Interpretation methods of cultural heritage at the intersection of sustainability and digitization using MIECAT as an example
- Cultural heritage in the travel industry at the example of GEBECO
- Cultural tourism as a sustainable platform for intercultural dialogue
- Panel discussion - "Marketing cultural heritage sustainably - digitalisation instead of travel?"

PANEL DISCUSSION - Find it, travel it! Western Balkans - Via Dinarica and Balkan Monumental Trail

In this presentation, attendees will learn more about the Western Balkans, the region’s successes and challenges, and communicate with tourism operators about promotion and logistics. The Western Balkans, in South-eastern Europe, boasts a breath-taking Adriatic coast, untouched mountain chains, dotted with traditional, authentic, and working villages. Travellers find themselves in the middle of centuries-old culture, pristine lakes and rivers, and a cast of hospitable characters.
Over the last decade, the countries in the Western Balkans have strived to make the most of these strengths through camaraderie and by promoting responsible travel. A chief method of cooperation has been implemented with the purpose of utilizing cross-border trails, cycling paths and historic routes. Among the most recognizable cross-border corridors in the region is the Via Dinarica mega-hiking trail, traversing Slovenia, Croatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Montenegro, Albania, Serbia, Kosovo, and Macedonia. The Trans Dinarica, a mountain-biking path, mirrors the Via Dinarica. In recent years, this cadre of countries has developed a series of cultural routes, which focus on existent historical points of interest and pays homage to heritage while keeping the economic benefits of tourism with local residents. With each path, trail and route, the goal is multi-faceted yet simple: provide travellers with the best possible level of authenticity; create sustainable ways for residents to make a living and show pride; and develop the tourism landscape in a way that honours both the culture formed over many millennia and the natural environment, for which we must all serve.

As tourism continues to grow apace in the 2020s, and the impacts of climate change and other social and environmental pressures are increasingly felt, the Travel Foundation and Intrepid Travel ask: How can tourism be developed so that destination assets are protected? The speakers will discuss with each other and the audience the range of perspectives to consider:

• What “assets” are needed for tourism to thrive.
• The pressures facing tourist destinations over the coming decade.
• The need to identify the most “at risk” assets.
• How to get the right investment and stewardship in place.
• Demand management and bringing new assets to the market to meet demand.

The political, economic and social situation of the LGBT+ community differs from country to country. Fully accepting and inclusive cultures exist alongside countries where being part of the LGBT+ community is reason enough for stigmatisation, legal prosecution or even death penalty.

But business leaders as well as political key figures are more and more taking a stand for diversity and inclusion of LGBT+ community. How do they use their influence on a global scale? What lessons have they learnt and how can they advise us to become an active supporter for equality?

Leadership experts and practitioners will share insights, present and discuss best practices on stage and in break-out sessions.

1 Jahr mit Familie im Bulli durch Europa

Monika Rech-Heider und ihr Mann machen, was sich nur wenige trauen: Sie lassen alle Verpflichtungen hinter sich, brechen aus dem krafttraubenden und hektischen Alltag aus und fahren mit ihrem Bulli ein Jahr lang durch Europa. Mit dabei sind ihre drei Kinder und auch ihr Hund. Die Erfahrungen, die sie auf der Reise machen, verändern ihr Leben als Familie auf radikale Weise: die Begegnungen mit anderen Menschen, mit europäischen Nachbarkulturen, die nicht länger fremd bleiben, insbesondere die gewonnene Freiheit.
