

Nils Lohmann

Area of responsibility: partner support & business development

Nils graduated with a bachelor's degree in International Business and since then has gained valuable work experience both in start-ups and large companies. Nils is the contact person for the aid organisations in our team, responsible for our external representation and the development of new partnerships. He has been personally on site in most of the countries in our range of services, therefore he knows the local conditions and has experience in working with aid organisations.
