

Adrian Klie

Adrian Klie (32) studied business administration in Bavaria and California, today he leads an international sales team from the far north of Germany. How he manages to see the whole world with his own eyes despite limited time - without having to cancel or take out a loan - and what you experience in the process is revealed in the travel podcast "World Tour", which he has been running together with his school friend Christoph Streicher since January 2019.
